Johnson Orders Full FBI Probe In Jenkins Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered a complete FBI investigation of the circumstances related to the resignation of White House aide Walter W. Jenkins.

The President's action was announced by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

From Republican National Chairman Dean Burch came a charge that Johnson had "covered up for 3½ years" an arrest of Jenkins on a moral charge in 1959.

Jenkins quit his White House post Wednesday after disclosure of another such arrest here last week.

Hoover said in a statement: "The President communicated with me immediately upon being advised of the Walter Jenkins matter and instructed that there be a full and complete investigation of the matter without delay."

"This investigation is in progress and as soon as all facts are obtained they will be forwarded to the President."

This was the first official word from the FBI on the matter. However, it was learned that the FBI had investigated Jenkins for a security clearance in 1958, but never since.

N&W Road Activates Consolidation

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—At a minute past midnight tonight a diesel-electric powered coal train will move out of the Norfolk & Western yards at Columbus, Ohio, and pass over a switch onto the Sandusky line.

At the same time, a freight will roll out of Fort Wayne, Ind., eastbound toward Bellevue, Ohio using the tracks of the Nickel Plate and Wabash railroads.

Movement of the two trains will symbolize accomplishment of the largest single consolidation of railroads in the nation's history.

At the first moment of Friday, under authorization of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Nickel Plate, the Wabash and the short Sandusky line of the Pennsylvania will become a part of the coal-rich Norfolk & Western. Joining in, too, for the consolidation of six roads will be Pittsburgh & West Virginia and the Akron, Canton & Youngstown.

Thereafter, from Omaha, Kansas City, St. Louis and Des Moines to Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Norfolk all the roads will be combined into a $1.9 billion transportation system operating in 14 states and the province of Ontario, Canada.

Cleveland Ford Strike Is Ended

CLEVELAND (AP) — Production was resumed today at the Ford Motor Co.'s two engine plants and foundry in suburban Brook Park when more than 2,700 members of a day shift of approximately 4,000 workers returned to their jobs.

The plants had been idle since Sunday night because of the refusal of members of Local 1250, United Auto Workers, to cross picket lines established by two striking unions. Local and international UAW officers have been trying to get them back to work.

Nearly 400 members of Local 1377, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the Pattern Makers' Association have struck the plants in a contract dispute. Their contracts expired Aug. 31, but both unions continued working on a day-to-day basis until last Friday.

Earlier, when asked about Burch's statement, Reedy had said, "I don't know what he's talking about."

The announcement that Jenkins had resigned was made a (Continued on Page Two)

Nobel Prize Is Shared

American Given Medicine Award

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The 1964 Nobel Prize for Medicine was awarded jointly today to American Konrad Bloch and German Feodor Lynen.

The two were awarded the $53,123 prize for their discoveries concerning the mechanism and regulation of cholesterol and fatty acid metabolism.

Bloch is German-born, and became a naturalized American in 1944.

Bloch, 52, was born at Neisse, Germany, and studied at the Munich Technical University. He married in 1941 and has two children. The family lives at Cambridge, Mass., where Bloch is associated with Harvard.

Feodor Lynen, 53, was born in Munich and is professor and director of the Biochemical Institute of the Max Planck Institute for Cell Chemistry. He married in 1937 and has five children.

In its citation, the awarding College of Professors of the Royal Caroline Institute noted that cholesterol during recent years has become a word of common usage in relation to the connection of arteriosclerosis to dietary and blood cholesterol.

Circulatory diseases are the foremost cause of death in many areas of the world. The great majority of these cases have a gravely disturbed metabolism. The prerequisite for correcting faulty function is to know the intimate details of the mechanisms involved.

The therapy against these circulatory diseases and related disturbances in steroid hormone metabolism will, in the future, rest upon the firm foundation laid by today's Nobel prizewinners, the awarding body said.

Bloch was credited with "lucid investigations which have shown how cholesterol is built up from acetic acid."

Housewife's Bound Body Is Discovered

WASHINGTON COURT House, Ohio (AP)—The body of a 19-year-old housewife was found hidden Wednesday night behind her bed with her hands and feet bound, police reported today.

She was identified as Carolyn Beller by Police Chief Rodman Scott.

He said her body was crammed down between the bed and the wall and covered with blankets. Scott said her hands were tied securely behind her back and her feet tied.

The body, fully clothed, was discovered about 10:30 Wednesday night by Mrs. Beller's younger brother. She had been living in a small, three-room house with her father and brother since separating from her husband about three months ago, Scott said.

A ruling on the cause of death is awaited from the coroner, Scott said.

Mrs. Beller was last seen alive about 8:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Scott said it appeared she had been dead "for several hours" when her body was discovered at the house in an alley behind 331 Beerman Street.

Authorities said they picked up Mrs. Beller's husband, James, 24, at his home here. He is being questioned.

Gen. Ike Urges Ohio Vote GOP

Former President Speaks in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower urged Ohioans today to keep the state in the Republican column by voting for presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater and the entire GOP ticket.

Eisenhower flew into the Ohio capital and said with a smile that this was his first political speech at the age of 74. The general was 74 Wednesday.

Recalling that Ohio has gone Republican in presidential elections since 1952, he urged "another shock treatment for Democrats next Nov. 3."

"It will do them good to learn that they don't have the country in the bag—not so long as Ohio continues immune to the techniques of promise-peddling and panic-mongering. And it will do the nation great good to learn that Ohio once again has voted for a Republican president—for Barry Goldwater," he said.

Eisenhower asserted that Republicans are pledged to sound and progressive government and he termed attacks on GOP defense, foreign and domestic policies "tommy rot."

Arriving at Port Columbus Airport, an hour earlier than expected, Eisenhower was greeted by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

At the Veterans Memorial Auditorium in downtown Columbus, he was introduced by former governor and U. S. Senator John W. Bricker who described Eisenhower as a president devoted to good government, honesty and integrity.

The Republican glee club sang "Happy Birthday" and a crowd estimated by police at between 10,000 and 15,000 applauded as Eisenhower appeared on the auditorium balcony for his noon address on a sunny fall day.

Eisenhower said that three "grand purposes of the republic" tower above all others:

"To be secure against a massive onslaught which could destroy us in an hour of terror."

"To advance and strengthen our global partnerships, purposefully with our friends."

That the United States "should demonstrate the ideals, the virtues — and the rewards — of a free society."

Eisenhower twice used the words "tommy rot"—in referring to attacks on his administration during the 1960 presidential campaign and in commenting on these three charges he said were being made this year.

That "a Republican administration will abuse and misuse the missiles that a Republican administration developed."

That "a Republican administration will arouse deadly fear and an even enmity within the international partnerships strengthened."

That "a Republican administration will impoverish millions, taking from them the security a Republican administration gave them."

Condemned Red Defiant to End

SAIGON, South Viet Nam

(AP) — A 19-year-old Viet Cong agent who tried to kill U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara went before a firing squad today shouting "Long live Ho Chi Minh" and "Americans get out of Viet Nam."

Guards dragged Nguyen Van Troi from Chi Hoa Prison to a nearby soccer field where 11 military policemen waited with carbines.

After repeatedly shouting defiance of Americans and Premier Nguyen Khanh, the condemned youth screamed his final salute to Ho Chi Minh, the president of Communist North Viet Nam.

Troi refused a blindfold, but guards tied one on just before the shots rang out.

Newsman and photographers witnessed the execution. Troi was arrested May 9 while setting a bomb under a bridge McNamara was to cross three days later.

When terrorists in Venezuela kidnapped U.S. Lt. Col. Michael Smolen last week, there were telephoned warnings in Caracas that Smolen would be put to death unless Troi's life was spared. The American officer was released Monday.

Racer Timed At 526 Mph.

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Craig Breedlove broke his own world land speed record, and the 500-mile-an-hour barrier today. But he wrecked his car when the drogue parachutes failed.

The 28-year-old Los Angeles driver left the jet-powered car unaided and appeared unhurt but was taken to a hospital for a checkup.

He averaged 526.26 m.p.h. in two measured mile runs.

At the end of the second measured mile Breedlove popped the parachutes designed to stop the racer. But the car was going so fast the chutes were pulled off.

Breedlove veered off the course, hit two telephone poles and came to rest in a canal, the car almost completely under water.

He climbed out and asked Bill Neely of Goodyear Tire Co., the first man to reach him: "I'm all right, baby? What's the speed?"

New Vienna Fire Probe Opens

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP)—Officials were investigating today the explosion and fire that killed four children of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Turner.

The fire wrecked the Turner home in the all-Negro community of Gest, near New Vienna, Wednesday.

Killed were Alicia Turner, 15 months; Lisa, 3; Rhonda, 6, and Timmy, 2.

Turner rescued three other children. His wife was outside the house at the time.

It was believed the fire started when Turner apparently threw gasoline on a stove, which triggered the explosion.

Alexei Kosygin Said Successor

Moscow Reports Not Confirmed

MOSCOW (AP)—Usually reliable sources said today Premier Khrushchev has resigned.

Leonid I. Brezhnev has taken over as first secretary of the Communist party, the key job in this country, and Alexei Kosygin has become premier, the sources said.

There was no official confirmation.

An official list of Soviet officials published tonight did not contain Khrushchev's name. The list by Tass was headed by Brezhnev, Kosygin and Anastas Mikoyan, the Soviet president.

Soviet sources in Paris said the resignation came because of "health" reasons.

The Finnish television, which is state-owned, was meanwhile quoting rumors that Khrushchev had been removed from office. No source was given for this report.

Premier Khrushchev, 70, has not been mentioned publicly for two days. He was missing today from a luncheon attended by every other top leader of the Soviet Communist party.

Most prominent among those other leaders recently has been Leonid Brezhnev, whom Khrushchev removed from the figurehead job of Soviet president last July to take a more important job in the party. Khrushchev is first secretary of the party as well as premier.

The government paper Izvestia, which usually publishes in the evening, delayed its appearance until Friday morning. It will coincide with publication of the Communist party paper Pravda.

Such simultaneous publication is the traditional way of making announcements of supreme importance here.

A collection of black limousines was noted today outside the headquarters of the party's Central Committee, indicating a major meeting.

Unconfirmed reports earlier said Premier Khrushchev had returned to Moscow from a vacation on the Black Sea, but he was not listed among those (Continued on Page Two)

Britons Now Choosing Between Tories, Labor

LONDON (AP) — Britain voted for a new House of Commons today after the rowdiest campaign of modern times. The outcome, like the weather, was uncertain.

Final public opinion polls Wednesday promised the closest fight since 1950, when the Labor won a six-seat majority in the House of Commons.

Leaders of both the Conservative and Labor parties made the usual predictions of victory, but all conceded the finish would be close. There was a possibility that the Liberal party, which had only seven members in the last Parliament, would emerge with the balance of power.

The election will name 630 members of the House of Commons. The party which wins the most will form the government.

If the Conservatives win, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home will go back to No. 10 Downing Street to lead a fourth term of Tory rule. If the Laborites win, Harold Wilson will become prime minister and Britain will take a swing to the left.

Douglas-Home, 61, who shed an earldom last year to become prime minister, wound up his 100-speech campaign by asking the doubters: "Do you really think that Britain can compete with other countries by shackling individual enterprise?"

Wilson, 48, a pipe-smoking economist, told a wildly cheering rally in Liverpool: "We care for people; they care for profit. We care about opportunity; they are preoccupied with inheritance and preserving inheritance."

The Laborites promised to end Britain's separate nuclear deterrent in favor of new arrangements for greater Western allied participation in atomic strategy. Douglas-Home pledged to keep the bomb.

The Labor party also intends to rationalize Britain's steel industry and clamp down on land speculators. Both parties promised to attack Britain's adverse trade balance by increasing industrial productivity. Each said it could do this better than the other.

Some 1,700 candidates were in the field today, including 629 Conservatives, 628 Laborites, 385 Liberals, and 36 Communists. The rest are from minority parties.

By Any Name, It's Indian Summer

By JOHN ARIMOND

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Call it what you like—Indian Summer, Old Wives' Summer, St. Martin's Summer, Halcyn Days or God's Gift to Poland—it's awfully nice when it comes.

After a mid-autumn cold snap chilled the noses and nipped the ears of much of the nation for more than a week, pleasant balmy lazy Indian Summer has moved in to make a last ditch stand against the ominous advance of winter.

The official definition of Indian Summer—the U.S. Weather Bureau's—is somewhat prosaic:

"A period in mid or late autumn of abnormally warm weather; clear, sunny skies but hazy days and cool nights."

To those of us who view Indian Summer as the nicest time of year, however, it means the last few days we can walk down the streets in shirt sleeves, kicking up small eddies of dust to mingle with the pleasant haze of burning leaves.

It's the last game of golf, against a panorama of multi-colored trees, or watching the neighborhood kids throwing a football dangerously close to the bay window.

It's a drive out into the country for pumpkins and squash, or a feeble attempt to make the summer's sun last just a little bit longer.

The Weather Bureau says the origin of the name "Indian Summer" is uncertain but it dates back to at least 1778. According to the bureau, it may have received that name because it gave the American Indians an extra opportunity to increase their winter stores.

A certain encyclopedia's explanation is a little more gruesome. It says early settlers coined the name because the good weather gave war like Indians a chance to make more attacks.

Europe, too, enjoys Indian Summer, only under a variety of names.

In England it can be St. Martin's Summer, St. Luke's Summer, or All Hallows' Summer, depending on when it occurs.

The general European name is Old Wives' Summer and sometimes Second Summer.

Poetically, it has been referred to as Halcyn Summer.

And in Poland, where it lasts three to four weeks, it's called God's Gift to Poland.

Bids on Welfare Building Will Be Opened on Nov. 4

Bid proposals for construction of a new Welfare Department building at the Pickaway Fairgrounds will be opened here Nov. 4.

Bids will be received at the County Board of Commissioners office in the Courthouse at 1111 p. m. on the opening day. Plans and specifications for the project are on file at the commission office and at the office of the architect, L. Eugene Swartz, 249 S. Paint St., Chillicothe.

Preliminary plans for construction were approved by the Board of Commissioners in May of this year.

According to the county solons, most of the money for the new building will be provided through the State Welfare Department. The county's responsibility will amount to furnishing necessary land and partial cost of the planning stages.

EARLY estimates indicated the project cost would be in the neighborhood of $40,000. Members of the commission have indicated a new welfare building at the Fairgrounds would help relieve crowded conditions at the Courthouse.

Plans for the welfare building have cancelled, at least temporarily, earlier studies devoted to a project calling for an addition at the County Courthouse.

The possible Courthouse addition received considerable attention in early 1963. Preliminary sketches were completed in June of that year, but the Commission delayed a decision calling for actual construction.

The addition, as provided in early plans, would have been erected where the Courthouse parking lot is now located.

However, the solons now indicate the separate building at the Fairgrounds may be a propitious solution. No state funds could be made available for a contemplated addition at the Courthouse.

attending a Kremlin luncheon for the visiting president of Cuba, Osvaldo Dorticos Torrado.

Every other active member of the Soviet Communist Presidium and Secretariat attended the lunch.

LONDON (AP) — The London Evening News said tonight big changes are imminent in the Soviet government and that these changes could affect Premier Khrushchev himself.

In a dispatch from Moscow, an Evening News correspondent said the speculation was heightened by "three mysteries surrounding the Russian leader."

First is the fact that Khrushchev's portrait is missing from its place in Red Square where the three latest Soviet astronauts are being welcomed Friday.

Second, said the News, President Osvaldo Dorticos Torrado of Cuba, who arrived in Moscow Wednesday for a state visit, has not yet met Khrushchev.

The third factor is lack of mention of Khrushchev by the Soviet press and radio over the past two days.

Stock Mart Heads Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels and motors declined as the stock market headed lower in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Losses of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered gainers.

Wall Street was preoccupied with the British election and the possibility that if the Laborites win they might stiffen interest rates in Britain and this would lead to similar action in the United States.

At the same time, the investment community was unsettled by the scandal involving an aide to President Johnson and the possible effect of this on the presidential election.

Some fairly sharp losses occurred among copper, rails, farm implements, chemicals and office equipments.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .9 at 327.6 with industrials off .8, rails off .8 and utilities off .8. The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 3.13 at 872.05.

Red Cross Truck Crashes

A Red Cross blood delivery truck was extensively damaged 4:17 p. m. yesterday and its driver injured in an accident at Route 23 and County Road 511.

Taken to Berger Hospital and later transferred to University Hospital, Columbus, was James W. Gullick, 38, Columbus.

Gullick had just made a delivery of blood to Berger Hospital, Pickaway County Sheriff Walton W. Spangler said.

He was returning to Columbus when he apparently drove past the entrance to Route 23 and continued down a gravel road.

Sheriff Spangler said the injured driver lost control of his vehicle in the lane. The vehicle struck a utility pole.

Socialite Parents Mute In Teen-Drinking Case

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—A Connecticut socialite couple pleaded no contest today to criminal charges of serving liquor to teen-agers in a prelude to a debutante's tragic auto death. They were fined $250 each.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Dutcher were the first of 13 adult defendants to be arraigned on charges of violating a 31-year-old Connecticut law by serving drinks to minors during a round of teen-age parties in neighboring Darien last June 22.

They stood hand in hand as Circuit Judge Alfred Toscano accepted their plea and told them that the prosecution and arrest of the defendants will have served its purpose "if there is a substantial reduction in teen-age drinking in Connecticut."

Others among the defendants awaiting arraignment also were expected to plead no contest.

Such a plea means that the defendants express willingness to accept the penalty without admitting guilt. The charge is a misdemeanor, with a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

The case has stirred the conscience of well-to-do Fairfield County, a socially esteemed Connecticut suburb about 50 miles from New York. It grew out of an auto accident in which attractive Nancy Hitchings, 17, was killed about two hours after attending a dinner party and a debutante gathering where hard liquor was served to the youthful guests.

Tuesday, in Darien Circuit Court, Michael Smith, 19, another guest at the parties, was sentenced to 60 days in jail and fined $50 as the driver of the death car. He reportedly consumed 12 scotches with water before the accident. His lawyers are appealing the sentence.

Smith and Miss Hitchings had attended a small dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Dutcher. He is a vice president of Johns - Manville Corp.

Later, the youngsters moved on to the deb party at the home of psychiatrist George S. Hughes and his wife, Cohosts there were Dudley P. Felt, a consulting engineer, his wife, and William F. Osterstrom, a general auditor for Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., and his wife.

The Dutchers, the Hughes, the Felts, and the Osterstroms were arrested last month on order of Circuit Judge Rodney S. Eielson.

Court administrators in six states and the District of Columbia have been elected members of the Institute of Judicial Administration.

William D. Radcliff, 630 Ridge-wood Drive, is one of the administrators elected to the institute. A former mayor of Williamsport, Pickaway Common Pleas judge and judge of the Fourth District Court of Appeals, he is now administrative assistant to the Ohio Supreme Court.

The institute, which serves as a national clearing house to assist all organizations interested in the courts, was established in 1952 with headquarters at the New York University School of Law.

A non-profit organization, the institute promotes improvements in federal and state courts, conducts studies on problems of court congestion and modernization, offers education programs for judges and administrators, and publishes the results of research in judicial administration.

Johnson . . .

few hours after he was hospitalized in Washington with what was described as "extreme fatigue."

Dr. Charles Thompson, the physician who sent Jenkins to the hospital, told The Associated Press his patient was suffering from "insomnia, tensions and agitation," that he was "just worn out" from pressures that built up since Johnson became President.

Numerous reporters received tips late Wednesday about the Jenkins arrests. Alerted by the tipsters, who were anonymous, they checked police morals division records.

These records showed that on Jan. 15, 1959, Jenkins was arrested at the YMCA on a charge of "disorderly conduct (pervert)" by two police officers, gave his occupation as "clerk" and elected to forfeit $25 collateral.

On Oct. 7 of this year, the records show, he was arrested again by police officers at the YMCA, was charged with being "disorderly (indecent gestures)," forfeited $50 collateral and again gave his occupation as "clerk."

At the same time and place on Oct. 7 a man identified as Andy Choka, 60, of the U.S. Soldiers Home, was arrested and charged with being "disorderly (indecent gestures)." He forfeited $50 collateral.

In the District of Columbia the charge of disorderly conduct is a broad category that covers many offenses. Forfeiture of collateral usually closes such cases as far as the police are concerned.

At the FBI a spokesman declined comment when asked if Jenkins' 1959 arrest was noted during the security check that is customarily made of White House personnel.

An $18,600-a-year administrative assistant to Johnson when he was vice president, Jenkins was named to the White House staff late last year, soon after Johnson succeeded the assassinated John F. Kennedy as President. His White House salary is estimated at $22,500 to $25,000.

White House sources said the president first learned of Jenkins' hospitalization as a result of questions from reporters. Asked to comment on the charges against Jenkins, a White House spokesman said:

"I'm not going to leave any implication one way or the other. I am not going to be placed in any position of compromising Mr. Jenkins."

Asked by newsmen about Jenkins' arrest record, a White House aide said, "We're looking into all those matters." Reedy said Jenkins had submitted his resignation as special assistant to the President in writing and that Johnson had accepted it and named Moyers to succeed him. Reedy said he had not seen Jenkins' letter.

Hollywood Movie Critic Takes Look at New Films

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The new movies —

"The Outrage" is more perplexing than outrageous. It poses the age-old inquiry: What is truth? The only answer is provided by a con man: "People see what they want to see and they say what they want to hear."

Like "The Magnificent Seven," "The Outrage" transforms a classic Japanese film — it was also a Broadway play — to a Western setting. But something was lost in the translation of Kurosawa's great "Rashomon"; somehow its art doesn't register amid the gunfighters as it did with the samurai.

Three lone figures gather in a rainstorm at a broken-down railroad station — a disheartened preacher, a garrulous charlatan, an idealistic prospector. Together they elate the scandal of a small Western town.

A trial has been held. A Mexican bandit was accused of the rape of a woman and the murder of her husband. But the testimony of the bandit, the woman and the dying words of her husband provide three versions of what happened.

Then the prospector confesses he saw the whole thing, and it was entirely different from what the other three said.

Paul Newman, Claire Bloom and Laurence Harvey perform above and beyond the call of duty in enacting their charade four times.

Edward G. Robinson, William Shatner and Howard da Silva are fine as the narrators, especially Robinson as the con man. His performance might well draw an Academy Award that is long overdue.

Samuel Goldwyn Jr. attempted with "The Young Lovers" something his father never did — to direct as well as produce a motion picture. The results indicate that young Sammy may have done well to deviate from the paternal pattern.

That does not mean that "The Young Lovers" is an unalloyed success. It is likely that the over-40 audience may object to its casual approach to what was once called moral values. Though the film is by no means immoral, its approach seems too sophisticated.

Goldwyn Jr. is to be commended for attempting that rare screen commodity, the cover story. It is a tale of the romance and torment of two college students, one a somewhat inhibited beauty, the other an aimless artist. Their situation seems real, and so do the collegiate surroundings.

Where "The Young Lovers" fails to achieve reality is in the characters. The leads are played with earnestness by Peter Fonda and Sharon Hugueny, but they never have dimension. Their joys, angers and frustrations are carefully delineated, but the motivations are never explored.

Air Accident Rate Ahead of 1963 Pace

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fifteen civilian aircraft accidents in the past month brought Ohio's total for the first nine months of 1964 to 110, the State Highway Patrol reported today.

No one was killed in the September accidents, and just one person was hurt. So far this year, 30 persons have died in airplane crashes in Ohio, 7 more than for all of last year when there were 136 civilian and 3 military accidents.

Political Payoff Is in Precinct Battle

EDITOR'S NOTE — As every practical politician knows, it's the battle in the precincts that produces the payoff on election day. It's here that countless workers toil to bring out the vote for each party. Their efforts can be decisive. This is the second of two articles on this grassroots combat.

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Across the nation the infantrymen of politics are on the march. By the thousands, the men and women who fight in what politicians call the grassroots are tramping the streets with but one goal — voters on Nov. 3.

They are men and women like:

—Joseph F. Lockard, 51, a professional politician who is Democratic committeeman for his district in Philadelphia. With him politics is a full-time job.

—Mrs. Norman Harrower of Hamden, Conn., a Republican worker who says cheerfully "My life is involved with Yale University, three children and a lot of politics."

—Harlan Weber, 30, of Little Rock, Ark., an insurance claims adjuster making his first political plunge on behalf of a young and growing Republican party in the South.

—Lynn Sperry, 87, retired farmer who first began harvesting Republican votes north of Bismarck, N.D., in 1908 when William Howard Taft beat William Jennings Bryan.

For all, this is the busy season. An Associated Press survey of precinct work across the nation showed they all are doing pretty much the same thing.

For weeks, now, they've been locating potential voters and getting them registered. The job now is one of trying to convince the undecideds and, above all, of getting those people favorable to their candidates to the polls on election day.

Fifty years ago, when an immigrant was sick and jobless, and his youngsters were hungry and cold, more often than not a ton of coal or a basket of food would be delivered, compliments of the local ward boss. Come election day, the compliment was usually returned, in the form of a vote.

One of the basic elements of precinct work — personal service — remains. Today's precinct worker offers the voter a ride to the polls, or baby-sitting service if necessary.

There's no question among political leaders of both parties about the value of good grassroots organization.

They point, for instance, to the whopping vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater turned out by thousands of his dedicated backers in Los Angeles and Southern California in that state's June 2 Republican presidential primary.

Goldwater went on to win the GOP nomination. The same team, beefed up, is working for Goldwater again in a state which the nominee considers crucial to his election chances.

"We win or lose elections in a precinct a vote at a time," said Matthew Reese, special assistant to Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey. "Our job is to get the ones convinced to vote for us from in front of their television sets to the registration office and then to the polls."

With registration books in most states closed or closing, the emphasis now is on convincing voters. Some party workers think it's a waste of time and effort to work on members of the other party. But others think it can be fruitful.

As one GOP worker in Tulsa, Okla., put it: "Party lines are no longer valid in Tulsa County. It's moved to conservative vs. liberal."

YOU CAN DEPEND ON

NEW YORK (AP) — Once upon a time there was an ambitious young man named Clarence Frothersbee-Smythe.

Frothersbee, as his friends called him, was doing pretty well as a customer's man in Wall Street, plus what he made driving a taxicab on Saturdays and Sundays.

But Frothersbee was a bit of a snob.

"I do not want to be a soulless money-grubber," he said. "Culture is above cash. I want to be the most cultured man in the world."

So he set out in pursuit of culture.

"Socrates was the most cultured man of his day because he knew everything there was to know then," he told himself. "I will become the most cultured man of my day by learning everything there is to know now."

At first everything went swimmingly. He read all the great books. Then he began reading not-so-great books. He became prodigiously informed about everything from the Aardvark to Zygotes.

Frothersbee became the life of every party, because he could answer every question but insisted on answering every question so finally, his friends dropped him.

"You are a cultural bore," one told him.

Frothersbee still was doing all right at his office, because they found his tremendous fund of information useful. But the day his bosses bought a computer, they fired Frothersbee, who hadn't sold a stock or bond in two years.

"Culture may be paying you dividends, but it isn't doing a thing to help pay ours," they said.

"Boors!" sneared Frothersbee. "Philistines."

Once he was depressed momentarily, when he saw a newspaper item that said the sum of man's knowledge was doubling every seven years.

"It just means there's that much more culture to assimilate," he told himself.

Frothersbee grew a beard. His clothes became tattered. He ate out of garbage cans. He slept in railroad stations and abandoned houses.

But every hour it was open he spent at the public library.

In time there didn't really seem much that Frothersbee didn't know.

On his 60th birthday, as he sat alone in the public library mulling and scratching himself, two men in white jackets approached Frothersbee, threw a net over him, and took him to a booby hatch.

There you can find him still endlessly lecturing his fellow inmates on such topics as "The historical influence of the zither on Austrian economics."

They don't know what Frothersbee is talking about — and he doesn't know that they aren't listening.

Moral: It ain't culture that makes the man. It's man that makes the culture.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Pressure is building up under the metal price lids. It's the hottest thing in the price picture today. And it carries with it the hint that increases in metal costs could spread in time to consumer goods prices, even those products using very little metal.

Steel executives are lining up, without waiting for the election to get out of the way, in plugging for higher prices they say are badly needed. The talks is bubbling like the molten metal in company mills.

Copper prices soar — and then tumble at the suggestion the U. S. government might tap its sizable stockpile to ease the current shortage. But even this prospect, which government officials call unlikely, carries little weight beyond the daily commodity futures market.

Silver prices are held in leash by still another, and compared bly much bigger, government stockpile of that metal. But it's getting harder to quiet talk of turning from silver to baser metals for minting U. S. coins. And silver users won't bet on price stability as a long-range prospect.

Tin, zinc and lead have climbed steadily in price as world industrial demand currently exceeds world production. Aluminum prices have risen.

Various steel products have gone up in price as demand mounted. But basic steel has held at the list prices. Now the top men in almost all of the biggest steel companies have gone on record as saying basic steel, too, must rise — even before the union starts its announced drive to get higher wages and more fringe benefits next spring.

The presidential election campaign has muted the sound of the steel companies' plugs, but the talk builds up almost daily.

Copper prices are about as confused as they could be. U. S. producers recently increased their price to 34 cents pound. Chile has put a 35-cent tag on its copper exports. Other world producers are quoting 32.5 cents.

Metal prices have been almost alone in the rising column of commodities in the last year or more. The government's wholesale commodity price index lists metals at 131.8, against 100.2 just a year ago. Fats and oils have risen in the year from 86.7 on the index to 100.6. But for all commodities the index still holds fairly steady.

World metal price fluctuations could be even more marked, once the elections in the United States and the United Kingdom are out of the way.

Try and Stop Me

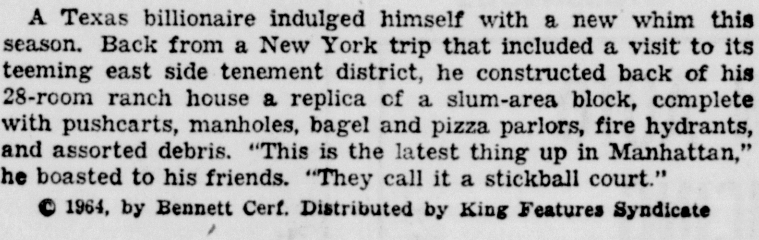

By BENNETT CERF

EN ROUTE to the seashore for a weekend engagement, a trainer and his talking dog were speeding along in a new sports car when a motorcycle cop started closing in on them. The dog advised the trembling trainer, "Better pull up at that parking area, and remember when he gets here, let me do the talking."

A Wall Street broker was interrupted in the pursuit of his duties by a phone call from his eight-year-old son. "Mama ran over my bicycle when she was backing her car out of the garage this morning," wailed the boy. The unsympathetic father replied, "How many times have I warned you not to leave your bicycle in the middle of the front lawn?"

A Texas billionaire indulged himself with a new whim this season. Back from a New York trip that included a visit to its teeming east side tenement district, he constructed back of his 28-room ranch house a replica of a slum-area block, complete with pushcarts, manholes, bagel and pizza parlors, fire hydrants, and assorted debris. "This is the latest thing up in Manhattan," he boasted to his friends. "They call it a stickball court."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

My five-year-old granddaughter contracted purpura after measles. What causes purpura and does it leave any after-effects?

Mrs. L. J. Illinois

Dear Mrs. J.: Purpura is a blood disorder which is characterized by tiny pinpoint blood-spots beneath the skin and the mucous membrane lining of the mouth. These are called petechiae.

This condition is almost always identified with a decrease in an important element in the blood called platelets.

The causes of purpura are many and varied. Some cases of purpura are transient; others are more serious. This condition sometimes occurs as a "side-effect" of certain viral or bacterial infections, like measles or meningitis.

The likelihood is that the purpura your granddaughter had was a temporary condition incidental to her case of measles, and will probably leave no after-effects.

Our 16-year-old daughter had a plastic operation on her nose five months ago. Since then her menstrual periods have become very irregular. She seems to suffer from complete exhaustion after the slightest activity. Can this be due to the operation?

Mrs. J. M., Rhode Island

Dear Mrs. M.: An operation of any kind can temporarily upset the physical and emotional equilibrium of a patient.

A plastic operation may be accompanied by a particularly high degree of emotional strain because patients often build up such great hopes and expectations about the results. It is natural for a person of any age to be emotionally affected by the decision to change her appearance.

The menstrual cycle is frequently irregular even under completely normal conditions. It is entirely conceivable that your daughter's operation and the anxiety connected with it may have temporarily disturbed the normal pattern of her menstrual cycle. Consult your physician. He can offer reassurance. In many instances specific medications can be used to re-establish regularity.

We are discussing venereal disease with our teenage children. Can you tell me how syphilis is spread? Can a young child pick up this disease?

Mr. M. T., Ontario

Dear Mr. T.: You are wise to educate your children about this disease. Too few people realize that syphilis is still a vast threat to health, even in this age of wonder drugs.

Syphilis is spread by intimate body contact. Children most definitely can acquire it, too. Even babies can be born with congenital syphilis.

Every public health agency all over the world will gladly supply excellent educational material about this disease and its prevention.

Lyndon Johnson says it's going to be a landslide for him, and Bill Miller says he senses that Goldwater is on the upgrade. But, as of this early October date, I don't think either fellow really knows what he is talking about.

The trouble, in this most enigmatic of campaign years, is that the country is full of people who have become guarded in their responses. The surest way to get nothing out of certain people is to announce that you are a newspaperman or a pollster. They give you the bland treatment. Or they say they are undecided. On the other hand, if you act the part of an innocent or, as Arthur Krock once called me, a phony hick, you finally manage to get something positive out of a person.

This has been my own experience in questioning people in the Northeast. I also note that Warren Rogers, of the Hearst Headline Service, has discovered on a whistle stop tour through the South that he has better success as a reporter if he remains incognito. And now I get a report from a correspondent in Texas who has never misled me in the past. His experience checks with that of Warren Rogers.

"Last Thursday," so my Texas friends writes, "I made a trip from Corpus Christi to Houston, a distance of 225 miles. This is what you find pretty often: you stop for lunch in a small town and you ask a cafe owner, 'how is the race going?' He replies, 'not much interest.' After a few more questions he still won't commit himself. They say, 'well, I hope Goldwater gets the job.' At this point he motions you over and reaches under the counter, pulls out a couple of those 'A Texan Looks at Lyndon,' and says, 'we are doing everything here we can.' He says, further, 'we have to get about it sly-like, for it may hurt our business.'"

The book to which my Texas correspondent refers, "A Texan Looks at Lyndon" is one of the more damaging anti-Johnson tracts. It seems to be having a great sale from under the counter. The point that my Texas friend makes is that the cafe owner who hides the anti-Johnson book is not going to give a straight answer to a direct question from either a reporter or a pollster.

If I had run into some almost identical experiences with people in the Northeast, I might write the response of my Texas correspondent off as peculiar to his part of the world. But when an old man who works at a gas station in Connecticut where I sometimes park my car gives me what amounts to a paraphrase of the Texas cafe owner's guarded conversation I begin to wonder.

What Goldwater apparently has going for him is the quiet American who has voted Democratic in the past but who doesn't want to see his kid-bused out of the neighborhood he is familiar with. This, however, does not necessarily mean that Goldwater will get a bigger proportion of the silent vote than Johnson. Among the Republicans for Johnson there are quiet people, too. And some of these people are in positions of power and influence. It cannot, in the nature of things, be documented, but there are certainly many Republican Party functionaries in the Northeast whose service to the national ticket is merely for show. In their own enigmatic way they are encouraging people to split their tickets. This, surely, will put many votes in the Johnson column. Thus the business of being "sly-like," to use the Texan's word, cuts both ways.

Because of the "sly-like" factors in this campaign it is ridiculous at this stage to put any trust in those who think they have a final answer. If, out of every ten people who are polled, there is just one liar it could change things around considerably. And my own experience with sly-like people in the past few months would lead me to believe that there is a big liars' bloc in this country.

This is not a pretty thing to say. But when a man with five kids in a Democratic city ward breaks down after an hour's conversation on a train and tells you of the people he knows who are deliberately misleading their party canvassers, you know that candor is selling at a discount. And when a down-the-line Republican worker tells you of a G.P.O. committee chairman who blandly announces that he couldn't sell a single ticket to listen to Dirksen at a rally in his district, you know the chairman hasn't really tried and that, secretly, he wants Johnson to win.

Nixon Plugs For GOP in 3 Ohio Cities

CLEVELAND (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon wound up a three-city campaign swing in Ohio Wednesday, taking verbal potshots at Democrats along the way.

In Toledo he called President Johnson "the Texas chameleon" who has flip-flopped between conservatism, liberalism and a middle-of-the-road political posture.

In Sandusky he said vice presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey was a "very sincere and dedicated radical."

In Lakewood he characterized the Johnson administration as "government of the birds, by the birds and for the birds." He also said Humphrey "isn't on the left of the mainstream of the Democratic party—he is on the left bank."

Also, he predicted Goldwater will top by 5 per cent whatever the polls show for him the day before the election.

Nixon labeled Ohio a "must" state for Republicans. "If we don't carry Ohio we aren't going to win the election," he said. He also listed Illinois, Indiana, California and Texas as other key states.

In Sandusky, Nixon said the campaign in Ohio is "ahead or equal of four years ago when we captured the state of Ohio by a quarter million votes."

Glennan Resigns At Case Institute

CLEVELAND (AP)—Saying the job must be in the hands of a younger person, Dr. T. Keith Glennan has resigned as president of Case Institute of Technology, a post he has held 18 years.

Glennan, 59, was the first administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and from 1950 to 1952 was a member of the Atomic Energy Commission. In both jobs, he was on leave from Case.

Elmer L. Lindseth, chairman of the board of trustees, announced Wednesday night that Glennan submitted his resignation at the annual board meeting Monday. It is effective at the end of the academic year in June.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Oct. 15, the 287th day of 1964. There are 77 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1946, 10 top Nazis were hanged in Nurnberg Prison in Germany two hours after Hermann Goering had committed suicide by poison.

On this date

In 1890, the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was organized at Pittsburgh.

In 1917, the German spy, Mata Hari, was executed by a firing squad.

In 1941, the Nazis reached the outer defenses of Moscow.

In 1945, Pierre Laval died before a firing squad in Paris for treason.

In 1954, a hurricane with 92-mile-an-hour winds struck the Eastern Seaboard, killing 166 persons.

Ten years ago — The Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission announced that two projects were under way for development of nuclear propulsion for large naval vessels. The reference presumably was to aircraft carriers.

Five years ago — The United Steelworkers Union made a new strike-ending proposal to industry — offering a sizable cut in its money demands for a two-year contract.

One year ago—President Ben Bella mobilized Algerian guerrilla forces to meet what he called aggression by Morocco. Chancellor Adenauer retired after 14 years as head of the West German government.

Issenmann Named Bishop Of Cleveland

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pope Paul VI has named The Most Rev. Clarence G. Issenmann, bishop of Columbus, to succeed the bishop of Cleveland, it was announced Wednesday by The Most Rev. Egidio Vagnozzi, apostolic delegate to the United States.

Bishop Issenmann will be titular bishop of Filaca and coadjutor bishop of Cleveland with the right of succession and apostolic administrator of the Cleveland Diocese. He will succeed The Most Rev. Edward Hoban who has asked to be relieved of active government of the diocese because of his age and health.

Archbishop Hoban, 86 last June, has been leader of the Cleveland Diocese for 21 years. The diocese includes Cuyahoga, Lake, Geauga, Medina, Summit, Wayne, Ashland and Lorain counties.

The Catholic population of the diocese was 400,000 when he went to Cleveland from Rockford, Ill., in 1943, but is now more than 850,000. School enrollment in that period has grown from 55,000 to more than 140,000.

Bishop Issenmann, 57, was born in Hamilton, Ohio, and has headed the 23-county Columbus Diocese since his installation Feb. 11, 1958.

No announcement was made of Bishop Issenmann's successor in Ohio's capital.

Vote Ordered In Athens School Fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has ordered a popular vote on a proposal for transfer of the Ames-Bern local school district in Athens County to the Athens city school district.

William A. Lavelle of near Amesville was granted a writ of mandamus against the Athens County Board of Education, which had held petitions for the transfer insufficient.

Lavelle said petitions bearing 311 names were filed with the county school superintendent last Dec. 30 and that the board of elections subsequently approved the petitions.

But the board of education, acting on the basis of letters and affidavits, invalidated a number of signatures and declared the petitions inadequate.

The board on Feb. 4 adopted a resolution to abolish the local districts of Ames-Bern, Rome-Canaan and Carthage-Troy and form the territory into a new district.

The unanimous action of the high court said the board of elections must determine sufficiency of transfer petitions.

"Once such determination is made," a summary of the decision said, "it is the mandatory duty of the board of education to properly certify the petition to the boards of elections affected by the proposal so that it may be placed on the ballot."

Mansfield Escapees Still Are Missing

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—The search continued today for Garland Edward Develiss and Edward Lee Miller, two inmates who escaped from the Mansfield Reformatory after slugging a guard over the head with a pipe wrench.

The two, sentenced from Hancock County on grand larceny charges, fled in a stolen car after escaping from the institution Wednesday. The guard they slugged was reported in good condition in Mansfield General Hospital.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 1964 presidential campaign, boring in many ways up till now, isn't altogether different from the 1960 race of Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy.

But two things make it unique in recent American history:

1. Sen. Barry Goldwater's repeated charge that "scandal" hovers over the White House, although he offered no proof, and his preachments on the need for morality in government. Voters haven't heard that for a long time.

And then Wednesday night, it was learned that Walter W. Jenkins, an aide to President Johnson for many years, was twice arrested on a morals charge. He resigned.

2. This year's election will decide the direction of the government for years to come, since Johnson wants continuation of big government, with new programs as he thinks they're needed. Goldwater wants smaller government.

Because of this No. 2 problem the 1964 campaign, unlike that of 1960, is not strictly a personality contest. There is a real issue and a real difference from the Nixon-Kennedy contest.

There was no basic difference between them on domestic or foreign affairs or the kind of government needed. They didn't offer to change it but to improve it.

So the main question for the voters then was: Which of the two men could run the government better? In 1960 Nixon and Kennedy wrangled over their ideas on how to defend the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu from Red Chinese attack.

This was apparently empty dispute, as time proved, because the problem of defending the islands has never arisen since 1960. It was an issue which hardly caught fire: the islands were too far off for voters to visualize the problem.

Something like that is happening now in the dispute between Johnson and Goldwater over whether the NATO commander—or the President alone—should have control over the use of "conventional" atomic weapons.

This is a complicated subject, shrouded in national security, and so far out of the experience of ordinary voters that most of them can't understand or visualize all that's involved.

As for the needling business, without which a campaign would be no campaign, Nixon and Kennedy needled each other and so do Johnson and Goldwater. Nixon and Kennedy were a little clumsy at it. So are Johnson and Goldwater.

Goldwater came up with an idea: He'd cut taxes 25 per cent at the rate of 5 per cent a year but he had to attach a couple of ifs to it: If Congress approved and if the budget was balanced each year.

No one can predict what shape the budget will be in five years in a row. This suggestion didn't raise sparks and Goldwater doesn't mention it much if at all anymore.

Johnson, on the other hand, has been trying to play it cool, making practically no promises he didn't make before the campaign began. Since he's out front in the polls—or has been until now—he seems to be coasting.

But as this is written early today—just a few hours after the news of Jenkins' arrest broke—there's no telling what's going to happen in the campaign or to it.

Nixon and Goldwater faced the same problem: Trying to pull the conservative and liberal wings of the Republican party together long enough to vote for them since a Republican needs all the party votes he can get to win.

In 1960 Kennedy had to criticize the Eisenhower administration—in order to say he could do better—without criticizing the highly popular President Eisenhower. If he had hit Eisenhower, it might have cost him the election.

Johnson, having watched a number of liberal Republicans split off from the conservative Goldwater, has been wooing them as hard as he pitched for the Democratic vote.

Mrs. Denofre Addresses Members of Monday Club

Mrs. Celia Denofre, guest speaker, presented the topic, "Releasing Man's Potential", when members of Monday Club met in the high school cafeteria.

During her discussion Mrs. Denofre said that programmed learning is still in an experimental stage there is much to be learned in this field but it has many enthusiastic advocates in the educational group.

According to the speaker it is not meant to replace the teacher in the classroom but permit more time for individual attention and assistance to all students.

Mrs. Denofre further stated that the gain for the student is believed to be in developing more equalized participation, and individual incentive in being able to work at the students own particular rate of speed and ability.

She went on to say that programmed learning is a part of the adult educational program in local industry. There are books available at the Pickaway County District Public Library on various self-teaching subjects.

Mrs. Denofre concluded by stating, "It has been said of this space age in which we live that, our progress in the last 40-years of this century will so far surpass that of the first 60-years to be almost unbelievable, as we went from the horse and buggy to the jet plane."

DEAR ABBY: Last year we moved from the country to the city so our children could go to the best schools, study with the best music teachers and get all the cultural advantages of the art museum, symphony, ballet and so forth. Well, the children haven't learned much, but their father has learned plenty. Every Saturday night I have to send my brother down to the burlesque house to drag my husband home. My man has gone hog wild. He signed up for a course in ballroom dancing and he goes by himself every Monday night and I don't see him again until after work on Tuesday. He says I don't need lessons because he has to "lead." (Is that true?) I suggested moving back to the country and he refused to go. How can I straighten him out?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl, and people tell me I am cute looking and have a good personality, but I have never had a real date. I think I know why. Boys are afraid to ask me out or come over because my father is a policeman. How can I get boys to date me with this handicap? I am hankering for a date.

DATELESS
DEAR DATELESS: Only a thief runs when no one pursues. I hope you aren't hankering for dates with boys who fit this description.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is just 20 and the girl he went steady with for four years is 18. She graduated from high school last June and Jim has had one year of college. They begged us to let them get married in July, saying she would work and they would have an apartment on campus. Her parents agreed to continue her allowance. We consented to their marriage on the condition that they promised not to have a family until Jim graduated from college. Well, they weren't married two months when she announced she's one month pregnant! We are so angry at that stupid girl! Do you think we are justified in asking our son to quit school and go to work? How do other parents handle situations like this?

JIM'S MOM
DEAR MOM: Why handicap Jim for life by refusing to help him get an education? He needs his college degree more than ever now. Give them a break and don't withdraw your support. Most parents help their married college children as much as they possibly can.

Ohio Girl's Body Is Identified

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP) —A suburban Cleveland, Ohio, woman has identified the body of a slaying victim as that of her 22-year-old daughter who had been missing in Europe since August.

Police said the young woman was raped before she was killed and that they had no clues as to the killer.

Mrs. Marie Peterson of University Heights identified the victim as her daughter, Ann Marie, Wednesday. The identification was made at the Karlsruhe central police headquarters, "mostly from Miss Peterson's clothing," police reported.

The mother also identified a silver ring with a synthetic ruby stone as one that the girl's father, the late Ruben Peterson, had given their only child.

The badly decomposed body was found in a small forest by West German soldiers who were on maneuvers Sept. 24.

Miss Peterson had left Munich Aug. 25 to hitch-hike to Paris. A member of the class of 1964 at Pembroke College, the women's division of Brown University, Providence, R. I., she had been studying in Europe since September 1963.

Arrangements were being made to transport the body home.

Views on Television — Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The three television networks are accepting paid political broadcasts, occasionally pre-empting entertainment programs and making room for short talks at the end of shows. They are doing it, but none really likes them very much.

The reason is clear: A political broadcast, even when it is only a five-minute one — invariably loses some of the audience, over and above the usual end-of-program channel switching. Studies made during the 1960 campaign indicated that a political advertisement, regardless of the party that paid for it, caused a drop-out of audience about 12 per cent higher than usual. That, of course, was not true of the Kennedy-Nixon debates which rolled up huge audiences.

This year, paid, half-hour campaign programs by both Republican and Democrats in spots normally occupied by entertainment shows have produced sharp anticipated drop-off in audience sizes, reflected in the projected figures of television rating services.

The new Nielsen ratings — the yardstick most generally used by the television industry in judging the size of television audiences — show that during the last two weeks of September, NBC's "Bonanza" was TV's most popular show, followed by ABC's new "Bewitched," and year-old "Fugitive." Other new shows in the top ten were CBS' "Gomer Pyle — U.S.M.C.," ABC's "No Time for Sergeants," "Peyton Place" and "The Addams Family."

Recommended tonight: "Bewitched," ABC, 9-9:30—comedy in which Samantha, a cauldron-stirring witch, becomes interested in her advertising man husband's new soap account; "The Defenders," CBS, 10-11 "Go Between," drama about the kidnapping of the son of a presidential candidate.

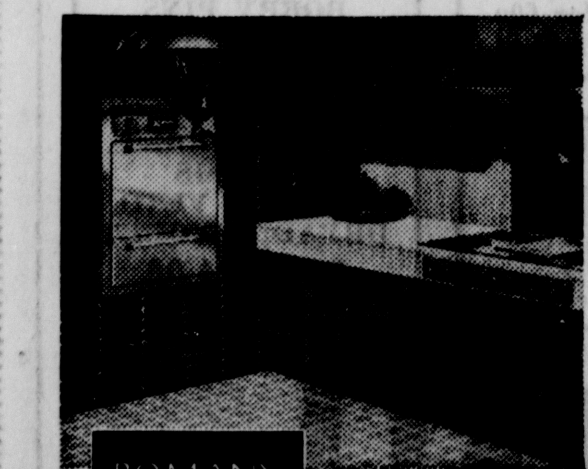

SUICIDE'S VICTIM — Veronica Mary McConnell, 24, Philadelphia, is the American who was killed while sightseeing in Paris when a woman suicide leaped from a building and landed on her. Miss McConnell is shown in a 1959 yearbook photo, on graduation from the Ancilla Domini Academy at 18. She was an X-ray technician.

More ABCs on Situation in Viet Nam

Editor's Note — This is the second of two installments of questions and answers on the background of the Viet Nam crisis. Answers are based on available information gathered by William L. Ryan, AP special correspondent, and Malcolm W. Browne, chief AP correspondent at Saigon.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Q. Is the attempt to hold back the Communists in South Viet Nam being stepped up?

A. The number of U. S. advisers is increasing. Special Forces operating in small units throughout South Viet Nam have been beefed up 50 per cent. About 1,000 of these tough Americans in about 60 teams are on the job. Civilian economic advisers are being increased.

More support goes to the "pacification" program, an attempt to win rural people by bringing economic, technical, educational and other aid to gain their confidence.

Q. What about the hamlet program?

A. These were called "strategic hamlets" by the Diem regime, which started them. Now they are "new life hamlets."

Often they are fortified with bamboo-spoke fences, behind which are armed local militia. The system under Diem aroused rural resentment.

Government troops often forced villagers from their homes, burned villages, made people live in the fenced-in compounds. Force is no longer used, and other aspects are changed, but there is still little indication of over-all improvement in the hamlet effort.

Q. Why does the Saigon government have so much political trouble?

A. A variety of reasons. Diem's government was widely criticized as having a dictatorial attitude. The army was full of rivalries and corruption, lacked initiative. Troops and officers often showed little will to fight or pursue the enemy. Unrest in the cities was widespread.

Q. Doesn't South Viet Nam claim to stand for democracy?

A. Yes, but it's a distant goal. A military coup overthrew the Diem regime last November.

A government under Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh floundered and in turn was overthrown by Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh. This remained essentially a military dictatorship.

Khanh called himself president, later adopted the title of premier. Minh now is titular chief of state.

The only political party of any significance, the Dai Viet, with an anticommunist, anti-Communist background, plays little part in today's government.

Q. Did the coups help matters?

A. At first, Buddhist resistance to Diem helped produce his downfall. This same volatile factor threatens Khanh although he is Buddhist.

Q. From all this, it seems the United States has a tiger by the tail. What are the alternatives?

A. None are pleasant.

(1). The United States could consider Red China and North Viet Nam the root of the trouble and extend the war in an effort to end outside Viet Cong support. This might cause general war in Asia. (2). The United States could agree to neutralization of South Viet Nam. This would be viewed by many as a step toward Communist control. (3). The United States can continue as it is, looking forward to a long, hard struggle.

Q. Is the United States getting help from its allies?

A. Washington asked 25 nations to help. About 10 help with small training missions or economic aid, but the United States carries practically all the burden.

Q. What does it cost?

A. At the rate of about $500 million annually since 1961, but likely to be $600 million in 1964 for all types of aid. From all causes, the United States lost 284 dead, about 2,000 wounded as of Oct. 1.

Q. If U.S. forces are only advisers, why so many casualties?

A. The word "combat" is avoided but Americans are in combat often. There is a factor that U.S. pilots fly planes only as advisers, but any Vietnamese aboard often will be along just for the ride.

Q. Why did North Viet Nam attack U.S. warships in the Tonkin Gulf?

A. Few believe it would have happened without Red Chinese approval. The guessing is that it was a test of both U.S. and Soviet reaction. Both Red China and North Viet Nam are feuding with the Soviet Communists.

Q. Is there a danger Viet Nam will be another Korea?

A. U.S. officials say pouring in hundreds of thousands of U.S. troops — as in Korea — would be no solution and the United States doesn't plan to do so.

Q. What about the question of extending the war to the North?

A. Premier Khanh advocated it, then toned down the suggestion. Washington never firmly ruled out the idea publicly, although U.S. authorities said it would not be policy to extend the war.

Coroner Studies Death Of Young Footballer

COLUMBUS Ohio (AP)—The coroner's office plans an autopsy to learn what caused the death of John Sinclair, 15, of suburban Upper Arlington, who collapsed while playing football at a friend's home.

Emergency squad officials said Sinclair appeared to faint while playing Tuesday and died after arriving at a hospital.

Q. Can Premier Khanh hang on in the face of all the odds?

A. He says he'll turn over power to a civilian national council by Oct. 27, as a step toward a more democratic regime. But South Viet Nam's chronic unbalance leaves the success of this project doubtful.

Q. Can the struggle be won?

A. The outlook at the moment is gloomy. Allegiance of the rural people is a key to victory but that requires large-scale retooling of Saigon politics.

There is widespread fear in the countryside that the Communists are winning, and people tend to flock to a winner's banner.

The government's failures in education, in coping with Red propaganda and in keeping young men from joining the Viet Cong are costly.

There are still official misbehavior and even corruption in local governments.

Q. What's at stake in South Viet Nam?

A. Washington says the outcome will profoundly affect the future of Asia and underdeveloped areas in Africa and Latin America.

President Johnson has said the future of all Southeast Asia is at stake and that the United States must remain determined to stand by Viet Nam.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona says that as president he would invite Dwight D. Eisenhower to head an experts' commission to report on the situation.

Beautiful Firethorn Plant Displayed at Huston Home

Firethorn is stealing the show right now.

But nowhere and we do mean nowhere is there a more beautiful specimen than that of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Huston of near Robtown. The eight-foot shrub planted to the east of the Huston's toolshed is nothing short of gorgeous.

Every square inch of the shrub is flocked with bright orange berries. This particular Pyracantha bush is now 8-years-old and it has been giving a fine performance for at least five years.

The Hustons went down to Springhill Nursery eight years ago and brought home a potted, foot-high firethorn. About the third year it began to fruit heavily.

BUT THIS is the best harvest of orange berries the plant has ever had, says Mrs. Huston who entered the garden editor out to Jackson Twp. to see her firethorn.

The Charles Huston home is back off the road. A pleasant and attractive modernized frame house, it is set in a shady lawn surrounded by cornfields.

Charles Huston has lived here 42-years — in short his whole lifetime. Mrs. Huston is a relative newcomer to the place, having lived there only 24 years when she came as a bride.

The Hustons are gardeners. And Martha Huston says that when she's been diggin' out in the garden she is glad to hit the hay as early as 9:30 p. m.

Once the spacious lawn east of the house was a vegetable garden. Now the vegetables are confined to a much smaller space to one side. Here Mrs. Huston plants her glad corns. She has three or four hundred each summer.

On the other side of the lawn is the Huston's big strawberry bed all ready for winter. At the back of this panel of grass all sorts of shrubs are planted, including forsythia, mock orange and weigelia.

IT'S A BUSY time for Martha Huston. She's planning to finish digging the glads and she has just finished strawing the strawberries. Along the fence she has recently made a tulip bed and is awaiting the chance to purchase bulbs.

Most people buy bulbs first and allow them to sit around the house for several weeks until the opportunity comes when they can dig a bed for them.

Judy Huston, their daughter who is now attending business college in Columbus, has taken over the responsibility of mowing the yard. She has a riding mower and doesn't mind the chore.

The Hustons have several fir trees in their yard. These were Judy's living Christmas trees at one time and after the holidays the Hustons planted them in the yard. All have grown into nice specimens. And at last the family has had to give up the living Christmas tree project because they just do not know where they'd plant another tree.

Mrs. Huston, a member of Soliqua Garden Club, has considerable know-how concerning a flower garden. Her border of perennials and annuals is just on the other side of the yard where the barbecue and patio are. Here she has iris, daylilies, dahlias and gaillardias, the lovely statice-latifolia which blooms in August and looks like a dainty lavender baby's breath. These perennials are interplanted with calceolarias, annual poinsettias, tobacco plant and tomatoes.

Along one fence the Huston's have their peonies.

THERE'S a farm bell not too far from the barbecue and patio. And there's a lamp post near the entrance gate.

It's good hunting territory at the Hustons. Last year Martha Huston brought in a lot of bitersweet and entwined it around the lamppost and this decoration brought forth cries of admiration from hunting guests. In fact it made such a hit that Martha Huston plans to decorate the lamppost again this year.

There's a beautiful specimen of blue spruce near the patio. Mrs. Huston told this home when it was a very small tree.

Now its' 10 feet tall.

The house is surrounded with evergreens, including Judy's Christmas trees at a couple of the corners and several fine Eucalyptus bushes that also have plenty of berries.

Mrs. Huston does not like to exhibit arrangements competitively. But she loves making arrangements for her attractive home.

In the kitchen was an arrangement of— you guessed it— firethorn with two little squirrels peeking out.

Garden Gossip

We think Pickaway County should adopt the Pyracantha or Firethorn as its special shrub to enhance the pumpkin. It is in full glory around Pumpkin Show season. If each family in the county and city had a firethorn, we'd make quite a splash. And imagine our county roads if every mailbox had a Firethorn bush in back of it!

Mrs. T. L. Conley, 135 Pontius Lane, has taken the plants out of her porch boxes before Jack Frost could get at them. She has indoor plants and vines that are quite wonderful.

Mrs. Harry Wright, Pickaway Twp., has yet to be found without flowers enough to make an arrangement. The day the Rotarians entertained television personnel Mrs. Wright, who assisted the Emmitt's Chapel group with the meal, arrived with chrysanthemums in a copper container. She admitted, however that even at the Wright's flowers were a little scarce this season.

It's been a lean summer for flowers everywhere. And speaking of flowers, we wonder about the Pumpkin Show Flower Show. Where will arrangers find flowers? And will there be any specimens?

If there's any question in your mind about where the Pumpkin Show Flower Show will be held this year, it will be staged at the usual place, 123 E. Franklin St., formerly the Hill Implement building.

If you happen to see Mrs. I. Smith Hulse of Williamsport, ask her about her misting bubble. She is experimenting with propagating plants under mist which is the latest thing in plant propagation. Cuttings are placed under a plastic bubble and treated to round-the-clock misting. Some amateurs have phenomenal luck with this method.

Wilbur Pontius, Pickaway Twp. farmer, picked his big quinces recently. Yes, quince trees, too have fruited heavily this season.

Harold Pontius plans to exhibit some of his gourds at Pumpkin Show. His luck has been very good and he has some curious ones.

Bob Brehmer was telling us that when he was a kid he used to enjoy eating hackberries, which are black as can be. They are all seeds and skin he said, but he considers them right tasty.

We were surprised to know that there were such things as hackberries. Then we suddenly noticed that these trees did indeed have tiny black berries. This is the first time we ever noticed this.

Guy Stockman, E. Franklin St., had a disappointing dahlia year. He had a planting of 84 which he strawed as usual. He decided the straw was too hot for them this summer. He lost several plants. And although he has quite a few nice blooms he did not enter any of the dahlia shows.

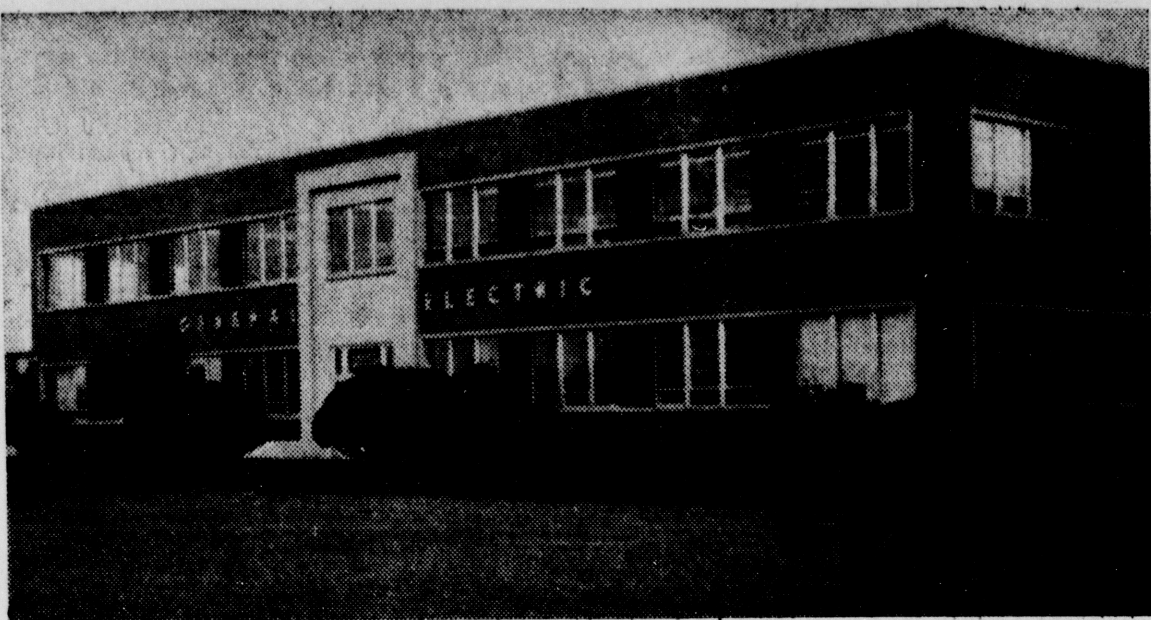

Don't forget the chrysanthemum show at Whetstone Park Shelterhouse in Columbus Oct. 17 and 18. You won't believe that amateurs can grow such grand flowers when you see this free show. Visiting hours are from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m. Saturday and from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. Sunday.

On TV and off I am a person who loves to gab. Just when I had a good start a man stood to the side of me and made a gesture as though to cut his throat. I paid no attention and in a few seconds all the directors, producers, cameramen seemed to be over at one side making wild gestures.

Finally they sneaked a commercial in on me. My husband could have told them in the first place that was the only way to put an end to my gabbing. But as Elizabeth Blaney and Vangie Campbell will also testify, it was great fun.

And Thursday last when TV performers were visiting in Pickaway County, everybody was very buddy-buddy with them. I sat next to Clay Eager at luncheon and we swapped his sour cream for my butter pat.

Clay Eager kept eyeing the jelly dishes. He said he was hoping for some good old homemade apple butter which he really loves and which he has not tasted this season.

LANDSCAPING AT THE GE PLANT — The seven acres of buildings at General Electric's Circleville Lamp plant are fronted by three acres of lawn. Evergreens, viburnums and yew hedges complete the landscape at this big industrial unit. The attractive planting is simple and easy to maintain.

PYRACANTHA IN FRUIT — Pictured here are grounds superintendent Robert Throckmorton and plant manager Ed Grigg examining firethorn at one corner of the building. In spite of drought, all trees and shrubs have come through the summer in good condition. The General Electric plant on E. Ohio St. is a fine example of attractive, easy to maintain industrial planting.

General Electric Landscape Is Streamlined, Attractive

The landscaping at the General Electric Lamp plant on E. Ohio St. is restrained, streamlined, commonsense and attractive.

Clayton Vaughan, engineer at the plant from its beginning, told us that Richard K. Schmidt Columbus, is responsible for the landscape plan as well as the planting. It was completed almost as soon as the buildings.

The well selected plant material has stood the big industry in good stead since 1949. Shrubs and trees have grown well and stood the test of time.

Robert Throckmorton is superintendent of grounds and electrical services. His assistant is Robert Jones. Maintenance is not too difficult.

THE SPACIOUS three acre lawn can be mowed in about half a day. It takes another half day to trim and clip along the walks and around the shrubs.

This summer trees and shrubs were given extra watering. The grass did not need its weekly mowing.

The GE plant affords employment for about 700 persons and is one of Circleville's biggest industries. Beside the spacious grass area, the planting is restrained but adequate.

Two large yews flank the front entrance. A well clipped yew hedge borders the walks to the entrance. Planted along the entire foundation is a dwarf hedge of eucalyptus and broadleaved evergreen.

Viburnums are used as accents at the corners and maple

Mrs. T. J. Conley, 135 Pontius Lane, has a curious and interesting picture of the late John F. Kennedy, taken in Holland.

Mrs. Conley's daughter, Mrs. D. G. Maxey who lives in Luxembourg was journeying in near by Holland when she saw a likeness of the late president done in tulip varieties.

According to Mrs. Maxey tulips of purple and lavender were planted in a way to make a floral portrait of President Kennedy.

Mrs. Maxey sent a snapshot of the planting to Mrs. Conley. The likeness is a perfect one. The head of the late president is easily recognizable.

A strange memorial to the martyred John F. Kennedy! And one that could be found only in Holland where gardeners are so familiar with the use of tulips that they can paint floral pictures with them.

Pyracantha Fine Shrub In Autumn

Habit of Producing Abundant Berries Is Inherited

Pyracantha or Firethorn does for October what Holly does for December. And here in Circleville it does more because Pyracantha is not an uncommon shrub while berried holly is indeed rare.

The firethorn during August and the autumn months is covered with brilliant orange berries loved by birds. There are many specimens of excellence in Circleville and Pickaway County.

There are several different varieties of Pyracantha. But in this locality Lalandi is grown most widely because it is perfectly winter hardy.

The plant thrives in dry soil and sunny location. It is a good foundation specimen because its long shoots may be trained over a doorway or window casing. And they can be trimmed to fit any location.

IT IS NOT easy to transplant after it has achieved size. For this reason small potted plants are the wisest buy.

If Pyracantha in a warm well drained location seems to thrive, yet does not produce a good berry harvest, you should dispose of it and purchase a plant with a better ancestry. The ability to produce berries abundantly is an inherited characteristic.

If your Firethorn plant has some four or five years of age to it and still is not berrying, do not give it space. The glory of the plant is definitely in its

Maybe Burglar Just Can't Read

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Burglars who broke into the elementary school at nearby Monroe Tuesday night apparently didn't believe in signs.

Principal Robert Schanke reported to Butler County officers that the burglars smashed a hole in the safe, then apparently reached in and flipped a latch to open the door. They got $20 in change.

However, in plain view on the front of the safe was a sign which read:

"Door unlocked — to open, push down lever and pull."

Buy a plant with good ancestry. Or if you want to experiment bury some seeds. It takes them a year sometimes to germinate.

Better yet make cuttings of short side shoots taken with a slight heel of old wood. July is a good month to do this. Keep under a mason jar until rooted. Cultivate plants in pots until they are set out permanently.

2 Logan Elm Seniors Post High Scores on Merit Test

Two seniors at Logan Elm High School have been honored for their high performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQST) given last spring.

Each student who is endorsed by his school receives a formal letter of commendation signed by his principal and the president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. A total of 19 students took the test.

Joseph J. Horst, the school's guidance counselor announced that the commended students were Cheryl Hulse and Rick Macklin.

John M. Stalnaker, president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, said: "Letters of Commendation are being awarded to 38,000 students throughout the country in recognition of their outstanding performance on the qualifying test. We wish to call attention in this way to their high academic achievement. Although they did not reach the status of semifinalists in the current Merit Program, they are very capable students. The semifinalists and commended students together constitute about 2 per cent of all high school seniors. This certainly signifies noteworthy accomplishment by all these bright young people."

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation gives recognition to two groups of students who achieve high scores on the NMQST. The semifinalist group is composed of the highest-scoring students in each state and in U. S. territories. Semifinalists take a second examination to establish further their eligibility to become finalists and to receive consideration for Merit Scholarships.

To increase their opportunities to obtain financial assistance if they need it, the Merit Corporation sends the names, home addresses, test scores, and proposed college majors of all Commended students to the two colleges they indicated as their first and second choices at the time they took the qualifying test.

The Commended students were among the high school juniors in approximately 17,000 schools who took the NMQST last March. The test is a three-hour examination that covers five separate areas of educational development. The annual Merit Scholarship competition is open to all high schools in the United States and its territories.

Junior High Cheerleaders Are Selected

Cheerleaders for the Junior High football games at Ashville this fall were chosen by the girls for each game. Two girls from each seventh and eighth grades were selected to cheer.

Those participating from the seventh grade are: Brenda Baum, Susan Sabine, Vivian Sheets, Jane Clay, Angie Reese, Karen Lombardo, Jody Deal, Carol Sherman, Karen Thompson, Beverly Moody, Linda Noggle and Patty Ramey.

Girls from the eighth grade are: Frances Reese, Elaine Campbell, Beverly Koch, Linda Kuhlwein, Crystal Smith, Nikki Matz, Sandy Dresbach, Belinda Carpenter, Bonnie Griffey, Charlene Cordle, Sally Triance and Juanita Beech.

Try-outs will be held in the near future for basketball cheerleaders. Mrs. Felix Dore is in charge of the cheerleaders.

Active Members Sought by GAA

Teays Valley High School Girls' Athletic Assn. and class representatives met recently in the gymnasium. The purpose of the meeting was to "organize a better and active" GAA. The constitution was read and discussed. Softball games have been organized and a series of games scheduled.

An all-out effort is being made to create interest in the organization.

The large fresh-water snail, pomacea caliginosa, is found only in the shallows of permanent fresh-water marshes.

Pep Club Popular at LE

By LOIS BEAVERS

Of all the clubs at Logan Elm High School, the oldest and most popular is the Pep Club.

This club was started four years ago by the cheerleaders during the basketball season to "yell" our Braves on to victory. Almost everyone in the school joined and the membership has remained high each year.

During the year, the Pep Club sponsors dances and, starting last year, it sent the varsity cheerleaders to cheerleading camp.

The Girls' Athletic Assn. is a newer club which began two years ago and just recently reorganized under the leadership of physical education and health teacher, Mrs. Virginia Courtwright. The officers elected were president, Carol DeLong; vice president, Katie Wilson; secretary, Linda Pontius; treasurer, Mary Belle Kriesel; news reporter, Ann Perdion. Monthly meetings and programs are being planned for the coming year.

A Halloween Social Hour and volleyball game with Teays Valley are scheduled for this month. Dances and selling Physical Fitness Records are the money making projects for the GAA to pay for their awards. All of the Logan Elm GAA members have a good time sponsoring activities for everyone's enjoyment.

A safe driving club is being organized by Rodney Hedges, a junior. The purpose of this club is to control speed limits around the school and to practice safe driving habits. No definite name has been chosen for the club. These are three of the most popular clubs in the school. Everyone enjoys their activities and benefits from their work.

Teays Valley News in Brief

The sophomore class of Teays Valley reports a total of $2,900 in the sale of magazines by the class members. Those receiving prizes for high total sales were Ronald White, high salesman, Steve Puckett, Jill Butt, Carl Steck, Cathy Dingus, Pam Smith and Virginia Webster.

Representatives of Teays Valley High School at the annual Miss Pumpkin Show contest will be Janet Stover, junior representative, and Terry Trimble will represent the senior class.

The FFA and FFA classes of Teays Valley are sponsoring a chicken bar-b-q at the high school cafeteria Friday from 5 to 7 p. m. Reservations must be made by this evening with any class member. Following the bar-b-q the Teays Valley football team will meet Franklin Heights.

Three Seniors at the Teays Valley High School have been honored for their high performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test given last spring. Each student who is endorsed by his school receives a formal letter of Commendation signed by his principal and the president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Benis Lutz, the school's principal, has announced that the commended students are: Karen Dum, Gloria Kiser and David Sherertz. Letters of commendation have been awarded to 38,000 students throughout the country.

Bleachers Are Boosters' Project at LE

By JUANITA JOHNSON

The new permanent metal bleachers with a seating capacity of 964 persons are the latest addition to the Logan Elm High School football field.

In addition to the bleachers, we also have a new press box and our own public address system. The Erecting Committee of the Booster Club, with Allen Ankrom as chairman, saved $1500 on the original price of $10,000 by erecting the bleachers during the past summer.

Various projects sponsored by the Booster Club have helped in the payment of the debt. There were 160 reserved seats sold for three years' use at $10 a seat. There are still 80 seats available for purchase. A white elephant sale which sold everything from tools to cars to dishes netted $909.44 for the fund.

Several more projects are being planned by the Booster Club with the hope of paying the $4,500 balance in the near future. Projects under consideration are a wrestling match featuring Leone Graham vs. Frankie Talaver, a chili supper followed by a dance with a band furnishing music, a smorgasbord followed by a competitive program involving the Booster Club and alumni, and a LE Day starting in the morning with activities scheduled for all afternoon with a climaxing program following supper.

The Logan Elm Booster Club wishes to thank all the business establishments which donated articles to the white elephant sale recently held to raise money to help pay for new bleachers and press box on the football field.

Also the Booster Club would like to thank auctioneer Lloyd Spung, clerks Luther List, Nelson Jones, Carl Smith; township captains Bill Huffman (Washington), Lloyd Spung (Saltcreek), Carl Smith (Pickaway); all Logan Elm students who helped with the pick-ups; all adults who helped on the day of the sale, both in preparation and with the lunch stand; and of course, all who brought articles at the sale.

Without every one of the above mentioned groups our white elephant sale could not have been the tremendous success it was.

Expanded Music Department at LE

By CHERYL HULSE

Logan Elm has an expanded music program this year.

In past years there was no chorus period and band lasted only a half hour each morning. This year band lasts for a whole period. This eliminates the necessity of after school rehearsals. The chorus has been taking advantage of their extra time, also. Every morning during the activities period, some section of the chorus practices.

Other courses offered in music are Music II (voice class) and two music classes which include all freshmen. Although this program takes much work on the part of our music director, Mr. Petty, it will be worth it for there will be new and better singers added to the chorus.

Another feature added to the department is a music class for seniors called Music III. This small informal class discusses theory, harmonization, and sight singing and puts these techniques into practice.

Logan Elm Administrator Is Introduced

By JANET DELONG and BRENT RHOADS

In our opening issue, we would like to introduce Mr. John Henn, principal and executive head of Logan Elm High School and district. He resides at Route 4, Circleville, with his wife and four daughters.

Mr. Henn attended Defiance College and received his BS in education. He then attended the University of Dayton and Bowling Green State University, where he received his MA in education. He did his postgraduate work at Ohio University.

Mr. Henn has taught at Mt. Sterling High School and Fairfield Junior High in Madison County. Before coming to Logan Elm, in 1960, he had been a teacher, coach and administrator.

When asked what principles he followed in running the school, Mr. Henn said: "Schools exist for children and the youth of the community. All that is done to establish and maintain our schools must be measured in terms of what is best for the child. Each child should be accepted into the school as he is — worthy of the sincere respect of all of us. Regardless of his capabilities, he must be given every opportunity to develop into a worthwhile, self-supporting member of society."

LE Sports News Digest

By RICK MACKLIN

This year Logan Elm High School's football team is unbeaten in five games.

Our first defensive team has not been scored on this year in games against Laurelville, Amanda-Clearcreek, Sheridan, Teays Valley and Frazeyburg. This Friday the Braves will be going for win number six against the Westfall Mustangs. It looks like the beginning of an intense rivalry between these two schools.

Logan Elm's coach, Keith Merrin, is undecided on which boy to start at quarterback in place of the injured Jeff Lutz, but all three, Rodney Hedges, Russ Merrin, and Tom Smith, will see action. The only other injury to the team has been the loss for the year of Ken Palmer, a promising sophomore half-back, due to a broken leg.

In the first lunch period, an intense rivalry between the volleyball team of the faculty and that of Jim Moorhead has resulted in a close battle for first place in the tournament. So far, Jim's team has the lead over the faculty's but only time will tell the eventual winner.

In the second lunch period a ping-pong doubles tournament is being organized, but as of yet no games have been played.

Six-Period Day Effective at LE

By SHARON GRAVES

The classes at Logan Elm High School are scheduled on a new six-period day rather than on the former eight or nine period day.

Each student is advised to carry five academic subjects and one study hall. These six one-hour periods are so conducted that at least 45 minutes of each hour period is used as class. The remaining time is to allow the students to ask their teacher any questions which may arise from their assignment.

The subjects chemistry, physics, creative writing, speech, home economics, shop, mechanical drawing, typing, and physical education have class for the whole hour and eliminate the 15-minute study period.

Besides the hour long periods, a 30-minute activities period is held the first thing each morning. This time is used either as a period to hold meetings, to study, to work in the library, office, or bookstore, or to be in vocal music.

Due to the number of students, a two-period lunch system is set up. Each lunch period lasts about 40 minutes. While one group of students is having third period class, the other group is eating lunch. Then this order reverses to allow the others to eat.

A six period day is used at Logan Elm because it is less expensive in that fewer teachers are needed. Even though there are fewer teachers, each student still gets all the subjects needed for graduation.

Homecoming at Logan Elm Is Topped by Gala Dance

By BRENDA LIST

The Logan Elm Homecoming ceremonies began 7:30 p. m. last Friday, just before the football team played Frazeyburg.

The Homecoming Queen and court made their entrances to the field atop shiny convertibles, the girls being escorted by the eight senior football players.

The "luckiest" senior that night was Rick Shaw who crowned Queen Page Miller. Each girl was attired in an attractive wool suit. During the half time show the band honored the court by forming a crown. Despite the bitter cold, the LE Braves added a 24-0 victory to the homecoming gaiety.

The Student Council presented the annual homecoming dance directly after the game in the high school cafeteria. The colorful crepe paper streamers were draped across the ceiling and the windows to carry out the theme, "Ride On a Rainbow". A tiered throne of gold was provided for the royalty. Later Queen Page Miller, Senior Attendant Anita Moats, Junior Attendant Becky Alkire, Sophomore Attendant Debbie Ankrom, and Freshman attendant Janie Wright joined their escorts in the customary court dance.

EACH of these attendants was selected by her class. Because the queen had to be a senior, the seniors nominated four girls, one of whom became queen when she received a plurality of votes cast by the entire student body.

The queen and her court were later interviewed. Each was asked about her first reaction to being selected and her plans after high school. The reactions were varied. Page Miller was so surprised at the results of the voting, she literally fell off her chair. Next year Page is going to attend the American Music and Dramatic Academy in New York City.

Said Anita Moats, "After being chosen, I cried." After graduating, Anita plans to attend Capital University in Columbus to study speech and drama.

Becky Alkire laughingly repeated her shocked gasp and added, "Then, I cried." She plans to go to Ohio State University and later enter some phase of nursing.

Debbie Ankrom stated that she felt sad "Because not all the kids could be so honored, but excited and proud to be chosen." The cute sophomore thinks perhaps she will be a social worker after going to the University of Kentucky.

Janie Wright said she was "surprised, but pleased." Since Janie has three more years of high school left, she was not certain what she will do after graduation.

Everyone at the homecoming dance had an enjoyable time. To put the evaluation in the words of students questioned, the dance was a "real success," because it was so well attended that it resembled "Central Parkway at rush hour."

Teays Valley Class News

SENIOR CLASS

The 1964 - 65 organizational meeting for the Senior Class of Teays Valley High School was held Oct. 2. President, Dan Tipton, called the meeting to order. The secretary, Marilyn Younk, in, and treasurer, Bonnie Forquer, gave their reports.

It was announced that during the week of Oct. 5, orders would be taken for name cards. All orders are to be in by Nov. 1. The pictures of the boys of the class were to be taken Oct. 12, and of the girls Oct. 14.

A discussion about the selling of stationery by the class members was tabled until a later date.

Following the meeting they participated in the pep rally.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Junior Class is sponsoring a record hop Oct. 16 following the Franklin Heights-Teays Valley football game. The dance will be held in the cafeteria and will last until midnight. A small admission charge will be asked of those attending.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

The second class meeting of the sophomore members was held with the class advisers attending. The meeting was called to order by the newly elected president, Jim Smith. The class discussed several activities to be held in the future, one to be a dance after a basketball game.

General sales manager, Sue Courtright, gave a report on the magazine sale. A total of $2,285 for subscriptions was received by the class members with Ronald White being the high salesman.

FRESHMAN CLASS

The Freshman Class held its first meeting of the year on Oct. 2.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Richard Petty. It was decided to have a program planning committee for dances and other activities. Those selected to serve on the committee were Jackie Painter, Jim Chapin, Cathy Stibelton, Ernie Harber, Jennifer Hicks and Larry Valentine.

The members of the freshman football team were honored in addition to class members Bruce Reese and Mike Lombardo, members of the varsity football team.

LE Council Lists Officers

By JAMES WILSON

The 1964-65 student council officers at Logan Elm are president, Daryl Reichelderfer; vice president, Debbie Ankrom; secretary, Rick Shaw; treasurer, Jack Hatz; and news reporter, Brenda List. Mr. Goble Branham is our new sponsor.

Some of the activities sponsored by student council this year have been the Freshmen Orientation, the selling of sweat shirts and the homecoming.

Student council held a Freshmen Orientation, August 1. Having been organized into small groups, the freshmen received their class schedules. Then several student council members guided each group throughout the school building on an introductory tour. A get-acquainted dance followed the orientation.

This year as in the past, student council is selling Logan Elm sweat shirts. They come in red, black, and white with The Braves' emblem on them.

The student council planned the homecoming for the Oct. 9, football game with Frazeyburg. Brenda List was the chairman of the outside decorating committee, Linda Pontius was the chairman of the inside decoration committee for the dance, and Rick Shaw was chairman of the refreshment committee.

These are the activities which have been keeping student council busy. In the future student council will sponsor dances, school improvement projects, and encouragement of school morale.

SCO League Leaders Meet On Tiger Gridiron Friday

QUEENS COURT — From this trio of lovely girls, the Circleville 1964 Homecoming Queen will be selected. The candidates are, left to right: Patty Young, Louise Adkins and Jane Kutler. Special festivities Friday night will include pre-game and halftime activities as well as the traditional Homecoming Dance. The CHS gridiron Tigers will meet the Hurricane of Wilmington. A Booster Club Fish Fry will precede the kickoff.

Friday is Homecoming at Circleville High School.

It is also the evening for two defending South Central Ohio League co-champions to meet. The Tigers will clash headon with the classy Wilmington Hurricane.

And the outcome of the game, barring a tie, will put either Circleville or Wilmington at the top of the conference. The winner will be in a commanding position to win the title.

Both teams have 2-0 records in the SCO. Circleville coasted to a 39-14 win over Miami Trace after posting a 32-8 halftime edge.

IN THE SECOND league game at Washington C. H., the Tigers "lost the battle of statistics." A terrific goal line defense, however, preserved a 14-12 win for Circleville.

Wilmington has had little trouble blowing league opponents out of their path, easily defeating pre-season favorite Hillsboro by a 34-0 count and Miami Trace, 30-0.

The Hurricane boasts the league's leading rusher and scorer in Bucky Scott, the fleet halfback who caused the Tigers so much trouble last year when Wilmington won a 22-21 game there.

Scott has carried the ball 29 times in league games, gaining a total of 206 yards. This is an impressive average of 6.9 per carry.

He has tallied five touchdowns and four extra points for a total of 34. The senior halfback is not only the leading rusher and scorer, he is the leading pass receiver in the league, catching nine for a total of 163 yards.

John McElwee, Wilmington quarterback, is the loop's leading passer. He has completed 13 of 19 for 188 yards in two league games.

ADDING more than ample power to the Wilmington backfield is Mike (Big Daddy) Wilson, a 250-pound fullback who carries huge bulk with a surprising amount of speed. For short distances, he is one of the fastest players on the Wilmington team.

Tiger fans who thought they saw a fast backfield at Washington C. H. last week, will see an even greater display of speed Friday, according to Circleville scouts.

The visitors hold the statistical edge going into the game. They have piled up a total of 625 yards from scrimmage in two games. Of this total, 402 were on the ground and 223 by passing.

Circleville, for the same period, has a total of 340 yards with 267 coming on the ground and 73 in the air.

Circleville's most powerful scoring threat is Mike Ramey. His 26 points are second in the league. His 114 rushing yards are fifth in the SCO.

Howard Dade, who will see limited action this week, and Mansil Hurlbut, both have scored two touchdowns for Circleville.

DADE dislocated his shoulder in the game at Washington C.H. The injury is still causing him some trouble this week.

An explosive runner and a constant threat, he will be replaced either by Chet Hill or his younger brother, Steve Dade.

Gene Smith is definitely out of the picture for the Tigers. His injured hand is still in a cast.

Otherwise, the Tiger squad appears to be in comparative good health.

Coach Paul Starr reported practice was "real good" during the week. "I think the kids know what they are up against this week," he said.

"Wilmington has the edge in experience, size and speed. It's going to take 110 per cent performance on our part, plus a lot of second and third efforts if we are to give them a game."

Elsewhere around the league, Washington C. H. is at Hillsboro and Greenfield travels to Miami Trace.

Dreaded Yankee Muscle Puts Smile on Yogi Berra

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Bronx Bombers had done some real bombing for a change, and Manager Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees couldn't be contained.

"The way the boys hit today," he quipped, "they wish they'd played here all year."

The dreaded Yankee muscle, which had sparked only occasionally during the previous five games of the World Series, unleashed three home runs in Busch Stadium Wednesday. And the Yanks took an 8-3 victory, pulling even with the St. Louis Cardinals at three games apiece.

"I guess we can take our bags out of the hotel lobby and back into the rooms now," grinned Yankee right-hander, Jim Bouton, who got his second Series victory.

The Yanks struck in a dazzling manner, as the M and M boys — Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle — hammered consecutive homers and Joe Pepitone hit a grand slam to sew up Bouton's win.

The Cardinal starter and loser, left-hander Curt Simmons, gave up the homers to Maris and Mantle in the sixth inning with the score tied, 1-1.

"Outside of those two bombs, my stuff was all right," he said after the game.

"I threw Maris a real bad hanging curve ball," Simmons said, "and he hit it out of the park. That pitch to Maris was really upsetting."

Mantle followed Maris. "I'm very careful with Mantle," Simmons said, "so I really put some speed on that pitch. It was away from Mantle, but he was going with me."

Mantle was intentionally walked in the five-run Yankee eighth inning. He scored, along with two teammates, when Pepitone hammered reliever Gordon Richardson's curve ball for a grand slam. That broke up the game.

"I hadn't been hitting well," said Pepitone, who had only three hits in the Series. "But I just kept swinging. I'm bearing down all the time and when the fans get on me, I bear down a little more."

"Nothing compares to this," he said of his four-run blast. "I just wanted to make sure I touched every base."

Chamberlain's Pains Studied by Doctors

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Doctors at Temple University Hospital began tests today in an attempt to diagnose abdominal pains which have kept Wilt Chamberlain, San Francisco Warriors basketball star, out of action.

The 7-foot-1 shooting star checked into the hospital Wednesday night but was not available for comment.

World Series Goes Down to Seventh Game

ST. LOUIS (AP) — For the seventh time in the last 10 years, the World Series went down to the seventh and final game today with the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees all knotted up at three victories apiece.

The odds favored the Yankees 10-13 although the Cardinals never had lost a seven-game series in four previous appearances. The Yanks, 20-8 in all Series play, had won five of nine in seven games.

And for the third time in this Series, the Cardinals' Bob Gibson and the Yankees' Mel Stottlemyre prepared to match pitches, each seeking his second triumph with only two days rest.

Playing with their backs to the wall, and in enemy grounds, the American League champions averted elimination Wednesday with an 8-3 victory behind young Jim Bouton featuring some old-time Yankee bombing.

The victim was Curt Simmons, 35-year-old left-hander who vainly sought his first Series triumph. Simmons did well through five innings but ran afoul of the home run bats of Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, who connected back-to-back in the sixth to break a 1-1 tie.

Joe Pepitone's grand slam climaxing a five-run inning in the eighth put the game on ice and made Bouton the first two-game winner of the Series.

"I'm glad we're playing the last game in this park," said Yankee Manager Yogi Berra, his brood face spread even wider in a large grin.

"The boys seem to hit better here than in Yankee Stadium. The way they hit today, they wish we'd play here all year."

Failure to wind up the Series in six games didn't appear to disturb Johnny Keane, the Cardinal manager.

"I said at the start the Series could go down to the wire," he said. "We're used to this kind of scrambling. We've had to scrap all year so why not now?"

"I still think we can win it. We're better off than we were at the start. We have to win only one and in our own park. That should give us the edge."

Horseman Plans Study On Drugging

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — John W. Galbreath, winner of the Thoroughbred Club of America's 1964 distinguished service award, says he plans to sponsor a study at Ohio State University to determine ways of detecting whether a horse has been drugged before running a race.

Galbreath, who owns Dan Farms in Columbus, Ohio, and Lexington and the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club, terms the need for such a method "the missing link" in thoroughbred racing.

He made the statement at the TCA's 33rd testimonial dinner Wednesday night at Keeneland race course.

Under present methods, winning horses are tested for drugging after races have been run. Galbreath seeks a method of testing all horses immediately before they run.

"Doping can be done without an owner or trainer having the faintest notion of what has taken place," Galbreath said. "Yet the owner and trainer, under the rules of racing, are held entirely responsible."

Galbreath said preliminary studies at Ohio State indicate

Americans at Olympics Collect Medal Array

BOB HAYES

TOKYO (AP) — Burley Bob Hayes and tall Wyomia Tyus matched world sprint records, Al Oerter collected his third straight discus gold medal and American swimmers continued to dominate their specialties Thursday in the Tokyo Olympic Games.

Those various victories, along with surprise triumphs by Philadelphia's Vesper Boat Club and young Lesley Bush plus Don Schollander's third gold medal, helped build the American medal total to 32-14 gold, nine silver and nine bronze. Russia has 21—seven gold, five silver and nine bronze.

Hayes, the powerful, 190-pound flash from Florida A&M, solidified his claim as the world's fastest human with a 10-second flat victory in the 100-meter dash after an earlier, near-incredible 9.9 performance in the semifinals had been disallowed because of a trailing wind.

The wind was well within the allowable standard, however when he equalled the record with his 10-flat performance in the final.

Schollander, 18-year-old ace from Lake Oswego, Ore., won the 400-meter freestyle in world record time of 4:12.2, breaking his own mark of 4:12.7. He previously had won the 100-meter freestyle, anchored the winning 400-meter freestyle relay and has a chance for a fourth on the 800-meter freestyle relay Sunday.

drugs may have little effect on a horse's performance in a race. "Whether or not a drugged horse is helped or harmed," Galbreath said, "the effect on the racing public is the same in either case."

The American men's string of six straight victories in swimming was broken by Australia's Ian O'Brien in the 200-meter breaststroke as he won in world record time of 2:27.8. Chet Jastremski of Toledo, Ohio, the former record-holder, was third in 2:29.6, and promptly announced his retirement from swimming.

Yankee prestige was restored in the next race, however, when the U.S. girls hustled to a world record clocking of 4:03.8 in the women's 400-meter freestyle relay.

Team members were Sharon Stouder, Glendora, Calif.; Donna de Varona, Santa Clara, Calif.; Pokey Watson, Portola Valley, Calif., and Kathy Ellis, Indianapolis.

The Philadelphia crew's triumph in the premier eight-oared shell competition capped a great comeback. Vesper had been beaten in the first heat, won in repechage, then swept past the favored Germans in the final.

Keane Denies Bucs Offer Contract

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Manager Johnny Keane of the St. Louis Cardinals denied a report Wednesday night that the Pittsburgh Pirates had offered him a three-year contract to move there in a similar capacity.

"There's no truth to it," Keane said on the eve of the seventh game of the World Series between the Cardinals and the New York Yankees.

Keane said he will meet with Cardinals officials the day after the World Series to discuss his future with the St. Louis club.

Pirates Manager Danny Murtaugh resigned shortly before the end of the season because of personal health.

Along Campaign Trail

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — President Johnson carried his election campaign to upstate New York today with smiles and waves.

On his upstate trip, Johnson was accompanied by Robert F. Kennedy, the Democratic-Liberal party candidate for U.S. senator.

Kennedy told newsmen that despite a New York Daily News report showing him leading his opponent, Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, by a 3-2 margin, he believed he still faced a tough fight.

The poll reported Johnson leading Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater by 3-1 in New York State.

In remarks he had prepared to deliver in Rochester, Johnson said "the No. 1 issue in the campaign is responsibility" and that it has "become a crusade for the ideals and values which inspired John Fitzgerald Kennedy."

Johnson's upstate campaign swing had the dual purpose of seeking the state's 43 electoral votes for himself and to help the Kennedy campaign.

In a speech for a Democratic rally at Buffalo City Hall, John son said there are people "crying out against the policies and programs that have gotten America moving" and "there are voices urging us to change our course of direction and move in a radically different direction."

"They are people who want to arrest our progress and turn back the gains of four years," he said.

"But one of them is not your President."

"I intend to press forward the attack on the problems that beset us — the enemies of idleness and ignorance and infirmities of age."

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said today there is "a rising tide of doubt and dismay... all across the land" concerning the presidency and charged President Johnson is "shadowed by suspicions which no amount of handshaking and hurrah can chase away."

The Republican presidential nominee said Johnson's "great and good friend, Bobby Baker, has been exposed as a manipulator of high office," and the President's "name and office is linked with that of a convicted criminal, Billie Sol Estes."

Goldwater swung into south Texas for a day of campaigning after two days before large, enthusiastic crowds as he moved back and forth across the Midwest farm belt and on to the edge of the Rocky Mountains for a rally Wednesday night in Denver.

In a speech prepared for his first Texas stop in Harlingen, Goldwater returned to the attack on the Bobby Baker case—the issue he said hurts Johnson most. He paired this with the Billie Sol Estes affair.

Estes, a Pecos, Tex., financier, has twice been convicted for fraud.

The Arizona senator said the President "must be using every power of his great office, right now, yesterday and tomorrow, to cover up one of the sorriest rumors we have had in the nation's capital."

In response to a question before he delivered the speech, Goldwater said he meant rumors about Bobby Baker's ties with the White House.

Frost Causes Change for Flower Show

Mrs. G. Guy Campbell, Pumpkin Show flower show chairman, has announced that greenhouse flowers will be allowed this year in artistic arrangements.

This decision was made after Mrs. Campbell received numerous calls from anguished exhibitors explaining that Jack Frost had dealt a killing blow to their gardens. Even carefully covered plants were blackened by the freezing temperatures.

The new ruling does not apply to specimens which still must be grown by the exhibitor. Mrs. Campbell stated that the judges will be instructed to show leniency on imperfect plant material. They will also be instructed not to favor arrangements merely for the perfection of flowers.

IN THIS WAY, exhibitors who can salvage a few blooms from their frosted gardens will stand equal chance with arrangers using greenhouse material. According to Mrs. Campbell, amateur gardeners say the frost was one of the worst killers with in recent years.

Taft, Young Meet on TV

Senator Repeats Financial Demand

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young faced his election opponent today with a repeated demand that he disclose his 1963 income.

The Democratic incumbent said the law firm of Rep. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, "has clients dealing with the government."

Taft reiterated his decision not to make such disclosures, saying he doesn't consider it "good government practice."

Taft added that he is "not sharing in the profits" of his law firm.

The two men, trying for the Ohio U. S. Senate seat now held by Young, were interviewed on a tape-recorded portion of the National Broadcasting Co.'s "Today" television show.

It was the first time the two men had met face-to-face on the same stage in the campaign.

Young, who said he made his income public in 1959 and each year since then, maintained that Taft should do the same.

"I have filed with the secretary of the senate, and told him to make it public, certified copies of my income tax return for the years 1963 and 1962," Young said. "And my opponent, Mr. Taft Junior, is a member of the law firm of Taft, Stettinius and Hollister; and he has not filed any statement regarding his financial holdings."

Replied Taft: "If I am elected, . . . I will introduce into the Senate . . . a resolution calling for a full disclosure by members of Congress and by senators of their holdings. However, I think this disclosure should be made to a committee, a bipartisan committee of senior members of each house, made in confidence. . . ."

Taft added: "The senator is wrong if he believes that I am profiting in the results of my law firm as a partner. . . . I am not sharing in the profits of that firm."

Delphos Trucker's Death Is Confirmed

CLINTON, Mich. (AP) — State police have confirmed that the two victims of a fiery, two-truck crash near here were Louis John Wilhelm of Delphos, Ohio, and David Drumright, 53, of Wayne, Mich.

They were killed when their tractor-trailer rigs collided in fog Wednesday. Officials had difficulty determining their identities because their drivers licenses were burned.

No Leaf Burning On City Streets

Circleville Police reminded today that burning leaves in streets is in violation of a city ordinance.

Officers said residents confronted with excess leaves may contact the service department to have them picked up. They said another alternative is to burn them in backyards, using proper containers and supervision in doing so.

Police noted that burning leaves can easily cause damage to streets, especially those that have been repaved this summer.
